NOTE OF DISSENT.

I regret very much that I have to differ from my colleagues and submit a separate report. I have taken this step after deep and anxious consideration. I feel that I should be failing in my duty and doing very grave injustice to the services concerned if I agreed with them in their recommendations, which, I am strongly convinced, will not meet the situation arising out of the very great increase in the cost of living.

2. My greatest difficulty has been this : The financial position of the Government of Bengal is far from prosperous and the revision of the pay of the Ministerial Service has been taken up in a most unfortunate moment after most of the other services have been reorganized and the budget shows a deficit of over two crores of rupees. I have taken some part in pressing upon Government the necessity of curtailing expenditure in all directions, to provide money for various urgent reforms, and my only justification for recommending a large expenditure for the increase of the pay of the Ministerial and Menial Services is that they are the lowest paid servants of Government and have been the most hard hit by the rise in prices.

3. The Ministerial Service is composed of men drawn from the middle class, which morally, educationally and intellectually forms the most important part of society. In themselves they are the largest body of Government servants, and, unless they are given a proper remuneration and are provided with sufficient means to feed and clothe their families, to educate their boys, to train up their girls properly, it will mean the greatest possible injury to society, the potentiality of which no responsible man can ignore. I thoroughly realize that Government is not bound to pay anybody more than he is worth, but my strong conviction is that Ministerial officers are as a whole overworked and underpaid. I am myself a man of the middle class and I live and move among them. In my various private and public capacities I have come into frequent and close contact with them and the nature of their work, and I feel no hesitation in making the assertion that they deserve better remuneration than they receive. At the same time, our duties being confined to the economic side of the question only, we are precluded from making any suggestion in the nature of a reorganization. But Government having appointed us to advise them as to the extent of relief necessary on economic grounds, our duty was to put up the case properly to them, leaving them to decide how far they are prepared to go.

4. In view of the financial condition, however, I have felt bound to recommend a lower percentage of increase than the figures of cost demand. I should, however, urge that, as soon as a favourable moment arrives, the subject should be taken up more thoroughly than we have been able to do under the terms of our reference and in view of the financial stringency.

5. The constitution of the committee consisting of two official and one non-official members unfortunately placed me in the position of a minority from the very beginning, and I have therefore taken the greatest care to ascertain the views of numerous individuals whose opinion was likely to be useful. I can confidently claim to possess a greater knowledge of the domestic economy of the middle class Indian family than either of my colleagues, and I sincerely trust that my dissenting note will be treated not as the view of a minority, but as representing the non-official Indian opinion.

6. The increased cost involved in the recommendations of my colleagues is about Rs. 41½ lakhs per annum and that in my recommendations about Rs. 60½ lakhs. The actual cost, however, will, as I will show later on, be considerably less than this sum. Should anyone feel inclined to question the necessity of this large expenditure, I should point out that the number concerned in our proposals is over 10,000 officers and 21,000 men.

The expenditure is therefore by no means large in comparison with the amount sanctioned for other services. For instance, the revision of the Subordinate Police Force alone consisting of about 2,200 officers and 22,000 men has cost Government about 30 lakhs of rupees.

7. In the following report, in the first part, I have given my reasons for differing from my colleagues, in the second part I have submitted my own proposals, in the third part I have discussed the financial effect of my proposals, while, in the fourth part I have dealt with individual offices. The detailed recommendation regarding each appointment will be found in the statements appended to the report.

PART I.

Reasons for differing from my colleagues.

In this section I am dealing seriatim with each of the paragraphs under the head "General Recommendations" of the majority report.

1. The terms of reference to the Committee.—I have nothing to say in regard to the statement of facts made by my colleagues, but I cannot agree with them on the decisions arrived at on all points. The reasonings are in some cases erroneous and in others far-fetched. I mention some of them :

(a) It is not a fact that the establishments of which the pay has been revised have been excluded by Government from the ad interim allowances recently sanctioned ; only those establishments of which the pay was revised on economic considerations were excluded from this benefit. I think it necessary to mention this point, because, as I will show in my detailed note regarding individual offices, certain establishments or appointments which, though recently reorganized, have been allowed the benefit of the allowance by Government, because they recognized that the revision was not based on economic but on administrative grounds. Yet my colleagues have ignored the decision of Government and have allowed no increase in their present recommendations in respect of several such appointments, for instance, the Head Assistant, Inspector-General of Police office, and Personal Assistant and Head Assistant of the Director of Surveys office. In some cases only a partial increase has been recommended, as in the case of the Head Assistant, Board of Revenue.

(b) Although my colleagues state that they have avoided questions of organization and recruitment or the conditions of any service, they have, in fact, in several cases gone into such questions and have based their recommendations on enquiries which were not included in the scope of our reference, and have thus not been as thorough as they otherwise would have been. I may mention the case of the typists and stenographers.

(c) I cannot agree that the evidence given by the clerks has been valueless in all cases. Their attempt to base their demand on the increase of the family budget is certainly supported by good precedents. The Public Services Commission in dealing with the Imperial and Provincial Services distinctly laid it down that the theory of supply and demand should not be applied to appointments in India.

Secondly, the United Provinces Government in dealing recently with the pay of their subordinate establishments laid it down as one of the principles that "Every subordinate Government servant should receive once and for all a salary sufficient, even with prices at present level, to enable him to live in decency and comfort and sufficient to put him beyond the pressure of debt or actual want—troubles to which too many are at present subject."

Thirdly, the Eastern Bengal and Assam Ministerial Officers' Salaries Committee of 1908, consisting of Messrs. Teunon and Monahan, in page 7 of their report, dealt with the question of the cost of living, and in paragraph 30, on page 10, observed : "First and foremost it is clearly essential that to every clerk who is employed in any capacity a living wage should be assured."

Fourthly, Mr. McAlpin himself, in his report of 1910 on Secretariat Reorganization, based his recommendation regarding the rate of pay upon figures of minimum living wage and comfortable living wage.

It is the first time, therefore, that a responsible Committee is going to lay down a strange principle that Government is not bound to pay in all cases the whole of the increase in the cost of living. They are whole-time servants of Government, and, unless it is our intention to encourage them to supplement their income by questionable means, we are bound to give them sufficient wages which, as the United Provinces Government observed, "would enable them to live in decency and comfort."

2. Increase in the cost of living.—I entirely disagree with the views of my colleagues on the subject.

As I have stated above, in considering this question the cost of living must be the main, if not the only, consideration, and an accurate idea of such cost cannot, I hold, be obtained by the methods followed by my colleagues. In the first place, statistics are no doubt valuable as far as they go, but absolute reliance on them without applying a broad outlook to the question must lead to mistakes. For instance, whether you take the weighted or unweighted increase as your standard, you must first find out how far each of the articles in the list supplied by the Statistical Department constitutes in actual experience a necessity of life. Because the price of medicine has increased, say by 100 per cent., and the cost of coal by 100 per cent., and the price of rice by 50 per cent., you cannot strike an average and say that the cost of living has increased by 83 per cent. You must find out what proportion the cost of coal or medicine or rice bears to the total cost of living, and, unless you prepare a family budget and go into these details, statistics become entirely misleading.

Again, the comparison with jail figures is, as my colleagues admit, bound to be an under-estimate, first, because in a jail a very large body of men live together, which is not the case in a family; secondly, because in jails several of the items of living have undergone either comparatively little or no increase. In adopting jail figures the important point to be borne in mind is that they do not include the increased cost of labour and the middleman's profiteering. Paddy, pulses, mustard seed, yarn, etc., are purchased wholesale and prepared for final consumption by jail labour itself, and, while the cost of labour and rates of profit have increased in the outside world, they have not affected jails. We know that these are two substantial factors in making up the prices of articles. Again, in jails articles are purchased wholesale, and there is a considerable difference between the increase of wholesale and retail prices. A comparison with jail figures is fallacious in several other ways. For instance, they do not show increases under the heads house-rent, vegetables, doctors' fees, educational charges, etc.

Similarly, I am not prepared to accept hostel figures as an absolute basis of comparison, for the very good reason that, as every parent knows, the fixed monthly remittance is supplemented very frequently by the supply of several articles or cash. Moreover, the figures for particular hostels referred to by my colleagues and quoted in Appendices IV and V do not give a fair idea of the increase. For instance, the first item in Appendix IV, viz., the Wann Hostel, is a missionary hostel, where accommodation is supplied at a concession rate and there is thus no increase in house-rent. The second item, the Krishnagar Hostel, the estimate from which is regarded by my colleagues as most complete, does not include warm clothing and several other items, and here also the house-rent is cheaper than it is elsewhere. The greatest defect in figures for students' hostels is that there are regular vacations and the charges realized for these periods go a considerable way towards making up the deficit in the other periods, and, besides, there are always a number of casual absentees, who do not consume food, but nevertheless contribute their share of the common cost.

On the whole, therefore, I am of opinion that my colleagues' estimate of an increase of 60 per cent. has been based on unsound data, and I strongly hold that this rate should be put at 100 per cent. I shall give my reasons for this estimate in the next section of my note. One point, however, I should like to mention here and that is the supposed theory that there are indications of a world fall in prices. My colleagues contend that the recent prices of food-grains have been influenced by the abnormally bad harvest of the year 1918-19. By food-grains no doubt rice is principally meant. The price of an article of world-wide consumption like rice is determined by so many factors that it would, in my opinion, be incorrect to base any conclusion on the nature of the harvest alone. The price depends also on the nature of the harvest in the neighbouring provinces and the outside world, the amount of stock available from the previous year and on the export policy of Government. As my colleagues lay emphasis on the bad harvest of 1918-19 and expect a fall of prices now, I give below the figures, showing that, in spite of the good harvests of 1919-20 and 1920-21, prices have not only not decreased, but have in fact increased :—

The Calcutta Gazette, dated the 29th January 1919.

Similarly, with regard to clothing, which I notice my colleagues consider an item of comparatively small importance in the domestic economy, there is practically no tendency towards decrease, and any fall that took place a few months ago has been counteracted by further rise recently, while the imposition of extra duties on imported clothing is bound to result in further increase. Similarly, again, there is not the least tendency or any possibility of the reduction of house-rent. The tendency rather is towards a further rise.

If, therefore, the prices of foodstuffs or clothing have not come down or are not likely to come down in the near future, and house-rent continues to rise, we are not justified in taking an optimistic view of the situation, because certain of the minor articles of consumption have undergone some reduction in prices. The growing increase in the prices of coal, kerosine oil, fish, vegetables, milk, etc., which are some of the prime necessities of life and exhaust a very substantial portion of a clerk's income, cannot be lightly ignored.

To what extent statistics or generalizations may be misleading may be shown by the following instance. In Appendix VI is given the statistics of the increase of house-rents in Calcutta since 1905-1918 supplied by the Statistical Department. Most of the figures are useless for our purpose, as they relate to commercial or highly expensive European quarters. The following six figures, however, which relate to Indian quarters, show the increase as below :—

			1910.	1918.
			Rs.	Rs.
Zariff's Lane	30	30
Ditto	47	55
Beadon Street	55	60

Ditto	72	90
Sukea's Street	68	75
			<hr/>	<hr/>
	Total	...	317	360	increase 14 per cent.

I do not know on what principle these figures have been collected, and they may be correct in respect of one or two exceptional cases. But as on these figures my colleagues have come to the conclusion that house-rent increased in 1918 by only 10 per cent. over the rate in 1910, and that the further increase since 1918 would not affect this conclusion, all that I can do is to quote the following extract from the speech of the Hon'ble the General and Municipal Member of Government in the Bengal Legislative Council in connection with the Calcutta Rent Bill (vide The Calcutta Gazette, dated the 31st March 1920) :

"I may be permitted to cite some cases which have come to the notice of Government and which show how inordinate are the enhancements which have been made. In one case rent was enhanced by 17 per cent. in 1918, by 83 per cent. in 1919, and yet again by 50 per cent. in 1920. In another case there was an increase of 10 per cent. in 1919, followed by 160 per cent. in 1920. In a third an enhancement of 20 per cent. was followed by one of 140 per cent. In a fourth the rent was enhanced by 15 per cent. in 1918, by 16 per cent. in 1919 and by 144 per cent. in 1920. In another case the enhancement amounted to 30 per cent. in 1918 and to only one per cent. in 1919, but this was made up for by an enhancement of 146 per cent in 1920. Another bad case was one in which there was an increase of 40, 8 and 84 per cent. in the three years.

To leave percentages and come to actual figures, I may quote some cases to show the difference between rents in 1917 and 1920. Firstly, I may mention small premises with a rental of less than Rs. 50 a month ; in two cases a rent of Rs. 16 has risen to Rs. 32-4 and Rs. 40, respectively. A rent of Rs. 22 has risen to Rs. 56, of Rs. 27 to Rs. 60, of Rs. 35 to Rs. 82, and in two cases of Rs. 36 to Rs. 80 and Rs. 82.

In the case of more highly rented houses, the rent of one house has risen from Rs. 52 to Rs. 150 per mensem. In another case it has gone up from Rs. 53 to Rs. 100, and in a third case from Rs. 70 to Rs. 225

Again, in the case of houses at a rental of more than Rs 100, the following enhancements are typical :—

From Rs. 155 to Rs. 350
" " 220 " " 400
" " 260 Rs. 290, and Rs. 300 to Rs. 600 in all three cases.

In yet another case where a rent of Rs. 350 was paid under three years' lease, a rent of Rs. 375 was demanded and agreed to last year ; the rent has now been put up to Rs. 1,000. The rent of a shop which used to be Rs. 750 was suddenly raised to Rs. 2,750. * * * *

The exorbitant demands of such landlords apply not merely to any single class of houses, whether large or small, but both to large premises and small ones, and to shops and offices as well as to residential buildings ; and the rise is not confined to any particular part of Calcutta, but, as far as we can ascertain, it is general.

For instance, in Lower Circular Road the rent of three rooms has been raised from Rs 100 to Rs. 175 ; in Elliot Road the rent of a house with seven rooms has been increased from Rs. 220 to Rs. 400 ; in Zakaria Street the rent of one room was Rs. 18, it is now Rs. 35 ; in Boloram De Street Rs. 80 was demand for a house lot for Rs. 40 in the year 1916, and the rents of many flats south of Park Street have been raised from Rs. 200 or thereabouts to Rs. 400."

Does the above statement made on behalf of Government support the assertion of my colleagues that house-rent in Calcutta has increased only 10 per cent. since 1910?

3. Revision of pay in Commercial firms.—This again is a misleading comparison. In the first place, in determining the rate of admissible increase in the pay of clerks, it was unnecessary to seek comparison with commercial firms. Government themselves have recently revised the whole of their superior services and some of their subordinate services too, and the rates fixed for these services would give a fair data for comparison for appointments with the corresponding rates of pay in the clerical services. But as this gives a very inconvenient figure, this method of comparison has been avoided by my colleagues. To seek guidance from commercial firms to determine the rate of wages to be given by the employer to the employé appears to me to be a strange idea, and in matters like these Government should rather lead capitalists than follow them. Next, commercial firms can very easily readjust their rates according to every change in circumstances, whereas we all know that Government is very slow to move. It is within my personal knowledge that soon after the outbreak of war, when prices began to go up, commercial firms met the growing difficulty of their clerical establishments not only by increasing the rates of pay, but also by giving them additional bonuses, and in certain cases supplying them articles at cost prices and in several other ways and if the commercial firms feel again convinced that further increase of wages is necessary, they may no doubt sanction this in proper time. On the other hand, during the entire period of the war, when the clerical establishments under Government were suffering from extreme pecuniary distress, Government could not make up their mind for a long time. Lastly, has the rate of increase granted by the commercial firms secured the contentment of their clerical service, on which depends the efficiency of work? The reply is an emphatic "No." I strongly hope that the commercial firms will ere long concede further increases, while the rate once fixed by Government is bound to remain stationary for a number of years.

4. Principle of graduation.—My colleagues propose to allow the following percentages of increase :—

				Per cent.
Appointments up to Rs. 50	60
" between Rs. 55 and Rs. 75	45
" " " 80 " " 100	40
" " " 105 " " 150	30
" " " 160 " " 190	24
" " on " 200 and over	20

The increase, my colleagues say, has been graduated on the principle that those who have a margin of comfort should receive a smaller proportionate increase than those on the margin of subsistence. I admit that men on the lowest rates of pay have been hit harder by the increase of prices than men higher up in the scale, but at the same time I cannot persuade myself to believe that the clerical service has ever been so liberally paid that as much as 40 per cent. out of a total increase of 60 per cent. can be set apart as the margin of comfort. In the instructions we received from Government (vide Government of Bengal, Financial Department, Resolution No. 2934T.—F., dated the 2nd November 1920) there was no indication that the relative scale of comfort, hitherto conceded by Government to different appointments in consideration of the nature and responsibility of work and the standard of qualification laid down for the incumbents, should now be curtailed so severely. This socialistic policy, tending towards a universal levelling-up of wages, can be justified on one ground only, viz., the inability of Government to pay its servants at the rates at which they have hitherto been paid. But, in that case, the principle ought, in all equity, to be applied to all higher paid appointments, and not to the clerical service alone.

In view of the present financial outlook, however, I confess it is impossible for a responsible committee to recommend anything but the barest necessity, but I should frankly put this down as due to the desirability of reducing the cost of the present revision, and not because the clerks are in such a comfortable position that they can surrender two-thirds of the increase of the cost of living as unnecessary luxury.

My next point of difference with my colleagues is that the rate of increase suggested by them makes no differentiation between Calcutta and the mofussil. Although prices have gone up everywhere, the rate of increase is higher in Calcutta than in the mofussil, especially in respect of house-rent. Moreover, owing to the increase of house-rent and the operations of the Calcutta Improvement Trust, Calcutta clerks have been driven to seek cheaper accommodation at a distance from the office quarters, and this means a recurring charge for tram hire. Further, the prices of several of the articles of foodstuff, especially fish, vegetables, milk, etc., have increased at a higher rate in Calcutta, and the increase in the mofussil cannot bear any comparison with that in Calcutta, and in my opinion proper consideration should have been given to this fact. In paragraph 7 my colleagues state that they have done so. I will deal further with this point in my note on that paragraph.

My greatest objection, however, to adopting this scale of increase is that the United Provinces standard cannot be a correct guide for Bengal. Bengal is on the path to great social and economic changes. Improvements in the standard of living, education, particularly the education of girls, the disorganization of the joint-family system are factors in the problem which no responsible body can lightly ignore, and they all lead to extra cost. If any comparison with other provinces was at all necessary, it should have been made with a more progressive province like Bombay.

Even turning to the United Provinces, I find that the rate of increase there given is not exactly as shown by my colleagues. For instance, in the Agra offices I find that Rs. 20 has been raised to Rs. 40, Rs. 40 to Rs. 70 and Rs. 50 to Rs. 80. These give much higher percentages than shown by my colleagues.

I note that, in regard to the posts below Rs. 25, my colleagues are not prepared to adopt even the United Provinces standard of increase, because they assume that the pay of certain posts there was previously exceptionally low. I venture to suggest that no value should be attached to assumptions of such a nature. In the case of our own province, the scope and nature of our enquiries have precluded us from examining the adequacy or otherwise of pre-war rates of pay, and we have, for the purpose of our work, assumed that these rates were sufficient. We have, therefore, no justification whatsoever for assuming that the rate in another province was exceptionally low, and for basing our conclusions on such assumption.

5. Minimum Wage.—I agree with my colleagues, although with certain reservations, that the rate of wage must depend on the standard of living, the class of work, qualifications and market rates. But, unfortunately, we have not gone into these questions at all. My colleagues have held that these are outside the scope of our reference, and that our duty is only to find out the percentage of increase necessary solely on economic grounds. Having accepted this procedure, the safest course for us would be to find out what are the necessities of living on which the previous committees based their estimate of wages, and to convert the prices of those necessities into modern rates. Before doing this, however, I will examine some of the points taken up by my colleagues.

It is not a fact that just before the war Rs. 30 was generally regarded as the minimum wage for a district office, as my colleagues state. On the other hand, this rate was recommended as long ago as 1885 by the Ministerial Officers Committee of that year. Speaking on this subject, the Eastern Bengal and Assam Ministerial Officers Committee of 1908 stated :

"The decision of the question whether on the whole the pay is adequate, therefore, depends to a considerable degree on the answer to the question whether a pay of less than Rs. 30 is such as will enable a man of the Amla class to live in ordinary comfort and meet the reasonable expenses of men of the same class. To this question we have sought an answer from many sources, and the replies we have received lead us to the conclusion that there is no room for doubt that Rs. 30 a month is the lowest sum which can be held to be a living wage for men of the Amla class, even at the beginning of their services. The facts and figures given in Chapter X of the report of the Salaries Commission show that even in 1885 Rs. 30 a month was as little as a man of the Amla class could live on with comfort. In the twenty years which have passed since that report was drafted, the cost of living has undoubtedly increased, and it is only on the most parsimonious scale that Rs. 30 will now suffice even for a man with a very small family."

The question was afterwards discussed in the Commissioners' Conference of 1908, in which one of the members of the Salaries Committee confessed that they could not recommend a higher rate than Rs. 30, because they had been bound by financial considerations. In the conference it was strongly urged by responsible officers that the rate should be raised to Rs. 50, but at last the following compromise was adopted :—

"While the Conference is of opinion that a higher minimum pay than Rs. 30 is desirable, it accepts the recommendation of the Committee that the minimum pay should be for the present Rs. 30, representing, as this does, a substantial advance on the present minimum."

It will thus be seen that Rs. 30 was considered a suitable rate by the Committee of 1885, a parsimonious rate by the Committee of 1908 and an inadequate rate by the Commissioners' Conference of 1908. During the period of five years intervening between 1909 and the commencement of the war the general cost of living increased by over 10 per cent. (vide page 30 of Mr. K. L. Datta's Report on Prices), and therefore the rate of Rs. 30 was still more inadequate when the war began.

In the face of these facts, is the assertion made in the majority report that "just before the war Rs. 30 was generally regarded as the minimum wage of a ministerial officer" in district offices tenable?

From the enquiries I have made it appears that nearly two-thirds of the men on the lowest pay in district offices act in the higher grade, that is, they get a pay of Rs. 35 plus the ad interim allowance of Rs. 10-8 or Rs. 45-8. Thus, when we deal with a man on Rs. 30, we are in a majority of cases dealing with one on Rs. 45-8, and not with one on Rs. 39, as held by my colleagues.

The present minimum in the Eastern Bengal districts is Rs. 30 and in the Western Bengal districts Rs. 25. My colleagues suggest that these figures should now be raised to the uniform rate of Rs. 40. Even leaving the acting allowance, this gives an increase of 60 per cent. to the men of the Western Bengal districts, but only 33 per cent. to the men of the Eastern Bengal districts, or, in other words, three out of five divisions are deprived of the full benefit of the increase conceded by my colleagues. If I succeed in establishing that the cost of living has increased by 100 per cent., the Western Bengal rate should be Rs. 50 and the Eastern Bengal rate Rs. 60, or an average rate of Rs. 55. But, as I will suggest later, I will not go beyond Rs. 50.

As my colleagues have quoted the Postal and Assam rates in support of their proposed scale for the Lower Division in district offices, it is necessary to state the full scale for these two :—

Postal, for Calcutta	...	Rs. 45—45—50—3—64—4—5—140.
	{	1st class head offices and town offices
for Mofussil		Rs. 40—40—45—3—54—4—130.
		2nd class head offices and town and sub-offices
Assam	...	Rs. 35—35—40—3—64—4—120.
	...	Rs. 40— $\frac{1}{2}$ —60—4—100.

It will thus be seen that both these rates are far superior to the proposed rate for district offices, viz., Rs. 35—35—40—2—68— $\frac{3}{4}$ —80. I do not deny that Postal clerks are very hard-worked, but so too are the district office clerks, and the nature of the duties is more complicated in the latter case. Again, in Assam, the laws and regulations are not as varied as in Bengal, and the standard of living is very much different, while the cost of living is considerably less. Therefore, apart from economic considerations, my suggestion for a rate Rs. 35—40—50—2—70—3—100 is, I hold, quite modest.

6. Probationers.—I agree with my colleagues.

7. Town allowance.—In a previous paragraph I have given reasons for a higher percentage of increase in Calcutta. In this paragraph my colleagues admit that this is necessary, and they state that they have taken this factor into consideration in fixing the pay of the purely Calcutta offices. My contention is they have entirely ignored this factor with regard to these offices. I will prove this by concrete examples :

In the office of the Director of Land Records, as will be seen from the detailed list regarding that office, the present value of the eight posts in the Lower Division is Rs. 472, or an average of Rs. 59 for each. This sum raised by the standard percentage, as allowed by my colleagues in paragraph 4, i.e., raised by 45 per cent., gives us Rs. 86, but the proposed average value is only Rs. 77-8, giving an increase of 30 per cent. only. Or, in other words, not only has the Calcutta allowance been ignored, but even the ordinary standard increase has not been allowed.

I will take another example: The Inspector-General of Prisons' office has 20 posts in the Lower Division at a total value of Rs. 1,110, or an average value of Rs. 55-8. Raised by the standard percentage, this figure should come up to Rs. 80, whereas an average Rs. 77-8 only has been given. Here also there is no Calcutta allowance, nor even the standard increase.

Yet another example : The posts of senior Head Assistants in the Secretariat carry a fixed rate of Rs. 400. Raised by the standard percentage, this figure goes up to Rs. 480, and the average proposed by my colleagues is only Rs. 488-12. Here also, therefore, there is no Calcutta allowance, unless it is argued that the extra Rs. 8-12, which is really an arithmetical re-adjustment, gives an allowance of 2 per cent.

It is unnecessary to multiply examples.

The above is with regard to purely Calcutta offices. With regard to offices located in Calcutta, but the pay of which has been fixed on a provincial basis, my colleagues recommend an allowance of 10 per cent. of pay. I agree to this scale, although I think a more proper arrangement would have been to lay down a minimum of Rs. 10 and a maximum of Rs. 25, as I will do later on in the case of purely Calcutta offices.

8. Hill and local allowances.—I agree with the reservation that I give no opinion in regard to the proposal of the Deputy Commissioner, Darjeeling, to raise the rate of allowance in that district. This question, I believe, affects other subordinate services employed in Darjeeling, and there should be a common rate for all such services. The question, therefore, cannot be decided by this Committee.

9. Time Scale.—I agree generally with the views of my colleagues as stated in the paragraph on the subject, except that I think that a second efficiency bar is unnecessary. An annual increment itself implies an annual examination of the character of work of the incumbent. This annual examination combined with the special examination at the eleventh year, is in my opinion, quite sufficient.

I also think that the question of acting allowance has been inadequately dealt with by my colleagues. The statement that the amount of this allowance is on an average nearly 6 per cent. of the total establishment cost is, I think, an under-estimate. From Appendix X it will be seen that the present total cost of ministerial establishment is roughly Rs. 60 lakhs and the cost of the increases proposed by my colleagues is Rs. 31 lakhs. Taking the acting allowance even at 6 per cent. of the present cost, the saving owing to the abolition of this allowance would be Rs. 3,60,000. From the enquiries, however, that I have independently made, it appears that the cost of this allowance is roughly 10 per cent. of the establishment cost. In that case the saving would be about Rs. 6,00,000. As, however, I am not quite certain whether I am correct, I would suggest that Government should make a further enquiry on this point. If my figure is correct, we are taking away, in respect of those appointments, which are included in the time scale or in a lengthy progressive scale, nearly 20 per cent. (i.e., 6 lakhs out of 31 lakhs), and if my colleagues' figure is correct, nearly 12 per cent. (i.e., 3·6 lakhs out of 31 lakhs) of the benefit conceded by us on the ground that the new scale would give a "regularity of increments." But regularity or irregularity of increment cannot change the monetary value of an appointment.

10. Upper and lower scales or divisions.—I have nothing to remark.

11. Gradation of scales.—I agree. I have followed these principles as far as possible in my scheme.

12. Uniformity.—In view of our fundamental difference regarding the rate of increase to be given, it is not necessary for me to comment on the scales laid down by my colleagues. I would suggest a different scale later on.

13. Stenographers.—I think a wholesale reorganization of the staff of stenographers is beyond the scope of our duties, and if we are to undertake this work, a further enquiry should have been made. For instance, the opinions of the Principal of the Commercial Institute and of the General Manager of the Remington Co., although valuable in themselves, are vitiated by the fact that they have treated the subject entirely from the commercial point of view, that is, speed. On the other hand, a stenographer in a Government office is a combination of a shorthand-writer and a tour clerk and is also very often a confidential assistant. Some of them are required to make extensive touring throughout the year, and this involves great discomfort and additional expense.

Next, with regard to reporters, they form a class by themselves. There is a good deal of difference between taking down the substance of a speech and reporting a speech verbatim in an assembly of a large number of persons. Men of this class are rare in India, and I understand that there was a proposal to get reporters out from Pitman's institution in London. To determine the rate of wages payable to this class, it is necessary to ascertain what would be the charge of a reporter trained in England. It is also necessary to find out what daily or monthly fee is paid by newspapers to their reporting staff. If the reporters can earn more independently, they will be tempted to give up Government service as soon as they acquire sufficient speed.

Having regard to all these factors, I will propose a separate scale for these officers later.

14. Typists.—With regard to this class, as in the case of the Lower Division, the primary consideration is that they should get sufficient wages to enable them to live. Typists are generally employed in Calcutta offices, and the rates of pay proposed by my colleagues will not give them a living wage under modern economic conditions.

15. Method of initial entry into new scales.—I agree with my colleagues, subject to the following modifications :—

In (1), I think, continuous temporary, acting or sub. pro tem. service should be allowed to count towards increments in the time scale. Similar concession has been given to several other services.

In (2) also this procedure should be followed.

In (6), I think, in making up the loss due to the introduction of time or progressive scales, the loss of acting allowance as well as of ad interim allowance on acting allowance should be taken into consideration and personal allowances should be granted temporarily to make up the loss. This concession has been granted to Imperial Services (vide Home Department Resolution No. 1428, dated 20th July 1920, and No. 485, dated 23rd February 1921), and there is the greater reason for extending it to lower paid services. The principles laid down in the two Resolutions quoted above may be followed, the allowances ceasing on reversion to an inferior post. Personal allowance, under Note 1 to Article 33, Civil Service Regulations, is treated as pay, and the loss of this allowance and of the ad interim allowance on this allowance should be compensated. Otherwise several officers will draw less pay under our scheme.

16. Conditions of service.—Although this question is beyond the scope of our reference, I think that it should not be shelved. The inadequacy of pay is no doubt the main cause of the present discontent, but the want of prospects is no less important. As we have not examined this question, I refrain from making any suggestion beyond pointing out that His Excellency the Governor himself assured the deputation from Writers' Buildings' Association that it was his intention to make an exhaustive enquiry into the conditions of the Ministerial service.

PART II.

Recommendations regarding increase of pay.

(I) Clerical Establishments.

1. Terms of reference to the Committee.—The Resolution issued by the Government of Bengal appointing the Committee was as below :—

“The situation created by the large increase in prices in recent years, in consequence of which the subordinate officials in Government service in this Presidency have been hard hit, has been partially met by the grant of war and grain compensation allowances and of the temporary allowances lately sanctioned for ministerial officers. In the opinion of Government, however, the changed conditions render a readjustment of salaries necessary, and with this object in view they have decided to appoint a Committee to advise as to the revision, in accordance with modern economic conditions, of the pay of the permanent ministerial and menial establishments. * * *

From the above it will be seen that Government fixed no date which should be the starting point of our enquiry and it is, therefore, necessary to fix an equitable date.

The district offices and offices of Commissioners of Divisions were re-organised as the result of the work of two Committees which held their enquiries between the years 1905 to 1908. The present rates of pay of the Bengal Secretariat were fixed in the year 1892 and although certain changes have been made since then they are so immaterial that they may be ignored for our purpose. The pay of the lower division of the Secretariat was revised in 1919 but for facility we have assumed that there has been no change and have based our calculations on the previous rate. The rates of pay of other offices have either remained stationary for a long number of years or been revised in accordance with the standard rates prevailing in the Secretariat and district offices, while in the cases of a very few establishments increase of pay has been granted in recent years mainly on grounds other than economic.

I think, therefore, that if the year 1908 is taken as the starting point of our enquiry it will be fair to the majority of the establishments concerned.

Another point noticeable in the Government Resolution is that they recognise that the temporary allowances recently sanctioned at rates varying from 30 to 15 per cent. of pay have given only a partial relief and that it is their desire that full relief should now be given in accordance with modern economic conditions.

2 Cost of living.—It is necessary to discuss the question as to what should be taken as the proper cost of living, as there is a tendency in certain quarters that in the case of subordinate officials only the barest necessities for keeping the body and soul together should constitute this cost. Not only so, it is often argued that in fixing the pay of these officials, the prevailing market rate or, in other words, the principle of supply and demand, should be the determining factor. The above appears to be an entirely wrong view. As the Public Services Commission pointed out in paragraph 58, page 39, of their Report ; “Instead of being one of a number of rival competitors, the Government in India is practically in the position of a monopolist employer, who is unembarrassed by a trade union, and supplied with an abundant labour market, and by reason of these factors free to fix his own rate.” This being so, in fixing the rates of pay, that Commission was unable to be guided solely by the ideal of cheapness. They took into consideration the responsibilities attaching to the appointments concerned, the necessity of placing officers above the reach of temptation and of enabling them to maintain a position in society which the Government might wish them to occupy in each case.

The above principle should apply with greater force to officers on low rates of wages. As the Eastern Bengal and Assam Ministerial Officers Committee of 1908 remarked, to every Government servant a living wage should be assured and that wage should provide not only the barest necessities of living for self and family but should contain provision for reasonable decency and comfort. The rate must be sufficient to place him above constant worry and anxiety, must give him funds to educate his children and marry his girls and should at the same time leave a small margin for emergencies and for making a suitable provision for his family:

3. Increase in the cost of living.—Although since the war the prices of articles have increased at an abnormal rate, a considerable rise had taken place even before the war. Mr. K. L. Datta in his Report on the Enquiry into Prices in India, after considering all the factors of the problem, remarked : "So far as India is concerned, it seems to me to be safe to conclude that the rise of prices is likely to continue for some time to come. At any rate it is hardly likely to fall. An analysis of the factors affecting prices, whether confined to India or pervading the whole world, shows that, leaving out of account exceptional movements, both up and down, in exceptional times of famine and commercial crisis, the present general price-level will be maintained, if not raised." The figures given by Mr. Datta in his Report show that there must have been an increase of 10 per cent. at least in the cost of living between the years 1909 to 1914. As he noticed, this increase affected most the persons on fixed small wages.

To find out, however, to what extent exactly the clerical and menial staff has been affected by the rise since 1908 it is essential to prepare a comparative family budget. A fairly accurate list of items forming the indispensable necessities are given in Mr. McAlpin's Report of 1910 on the Secretariat Reorganisation and although the list was prepared for Calcutta, as we are here concerned with the percentage of increase only, which (with the exception of house rent, medicine and tram hire) will apply throughout the province, we may adopt it for our present purpose.

	Cost as shown in 1910.			Present cost.
	Rs.	A.	P.	Rs.	A.	P.
For self—
Rice (at ½ seer a day) ...	2	10	0	4	8	0
Dal (4 seers) ...	0	12	0	1	7	0
Vegetables and fish (at 6 pice per day) ...	2	13	0	4	1	0
Ghi ...	0	11	3	1	9	0
Salt, spices, oil, etc. ...	1	1	9	2	4	0
	8	0	0	13	13	0
For wife—

Clothing, shoes, etc. ...	3	0	0	10	0	0
Light ...	1	8	0	3	4	0
Social and religious ceremonies ...	0	8	0	1	0	0
Utensils, bedding, etc. ...	0	12	0	2	4	0
Tiffin ...	2	0	0	4	0	0
Servant (including food) ...	8	0	0	16	0	0
	38	4	0	75	11	6

In the above estimate, I have made no change in the list of items and quantity considered necessary in 1910. I have only changed the prices to present day figures according to the percentage of increase supplied by the Department of Statistics for the year 1920. One or two items are not to be found in the figures supplied by that department and in respect of them I have been guided by my own experience. It may be said that the increase in prices reached the highest level in the year 1920 and that as there is a tendency for the prices to go down now, a lower percentage ought to have been taken. Against this, I should point out that an examination of the estimate will show that it is made up mainly of foodstuff and clothing and there is not the least indication yet of any fall in the prices of these things. There will no doubt be a decrease in prices of such articles as tea, sugar, stationery and articles of luxury, but the estimate does not contain any provision for such things. House-rent also is not included here, but the cost under this head also has no possibility of decrease. At any rate I am recommending later on an increase of 75 to 80 per cent. only.

Minimum wage recommended.—The estimate given in the previous paragraph gives a fair idea of the cost of living of a person of the middle class in the beginning of his career in a mufassal district. To this estimate should be added fuel, house-rent and medical charges, and the cost would then be about Rs. 85 a month. It contains, in my opinion, insufficient provision for clothing and it leaves no margin for small amenities of life or for emergencies. This estimate was, however, considered in 1910 as providing a comfortable living, as it included provision for a servant, and the minimum cost of living was taken at 20 per cent. below that sum. Even accepting this line of argument, the present day minimum cost of living on the figure accepted in 1910 would be about Rs. 68 a month.

We can test the above figure by two other estimates given in 1908, one by Khan Bahadur Khwaja Muhammad Yusuf and the other by Rai Kaliprasanna Ghosh Bahadur, and quoted with approval by the Eastern Bengal and Assam Ministerial Officers Committee of that year. The estimates with their present day cost are given below :—

My proposal therefore is that for clerks of the qualification required for district and divisional offices the minimum pay should be Rs. 50, but this sum he would not get at once. He would be on probation for two years on lower rate, and would draw Rs. 50 in the third year after confirmation.

In recommending the above rate I have taken several factors into consideration. In the first place, as I have shown in Part I, even in 1908 there was strong feeling among responsible officers that the rate of pay should not be less than Rs. 50, and there is therefore a stronger justification now for adopting this rate. Next, owing to the growing competition for service, although theoretically the appointments in district offices and other offices of similar standard are filled by men with matriculation qualification, in fact men with higher qualifications enter them, and if as the result of this Committee's recommendations the present rates are revised, I expect that the majority of the new recruits will be persons with I.A. or I.Sc., or even B.A. or B.Sc., qualifications. It may be argued that they are not wanted and should be shut out. But it is of no use ignoring facts and, so long as the country does not provide sufficient scope of employment to young men, the present situation must be faced anyhow. There is no doubt that, even if the wages are not increased, there will be no want of candidates for employment, but it is a false economy to underpay Government servants having frequent dealings with the public.

Having regard to all these considerations, I would strongly urge that the initial pay of a clerk at the third year of his service should not be less than Rs. 50, and I have adopted this rate for clerks of the qualifications required for district and divisional offices. For men with lower qualifications, e.g., muharrirs, I have suggested a lower rate.

5. Gradation of scale.—As I have shown above, the cost of living in respect of the class of men we are dealing with has increased by about 100 per cent., but I agree with my colleagues that, for reasons I have already set forth, it is necessary to adopt a lower percentage of increase of pay and to graduate the increase as we rise higher up in the scale. I have allowed generally the following rates of increase, except in cases where, for special reasons, it has been necessary to allow a higher or lower rate :—

For appointments up to Rs. 50		—75 per cent. against my colleagues'		60 per cent.
Ditto	Ditto between Rs. 55 to Rs. 75—65	"	"	45	"
Ditto	Ditto Rs. 80 to Rs. 100—55	"	"	40	"
Ditto	Ditto Rs. 105 to Rs. 150—45	"	"	30	"
Ditto	Ditto Rs. 160 to Rs. 190—35	"	"	24	"
Ditto	Ditto on Rs. 200 and over—30	"	"	20	"

6. Calcutta Allowance.—As I have shown in Part I, my colleagues have admitted the necessity of a higher percentage of increase in Calcutta, and have provided for this for offices organised on a divisional basis located in Calcutta, but in respect of other Calcutta offices they have failed to make any provision for this purpose. This has led to inequalities amounting to absurdities. For instance, the post of Sheristadar of the office of the Commissioner of the Presidency Division carries now a pay of Rs. 200—10—250. This is also the rate of pay of several ministerial heads in purely Calcutta offices, e.g., those of the Director of Land Records, Excise. According to our colleagues' proposals the Sheristadar would in future, with the Calcutta allowance, get a minimum of Rs. 275 and a maximum of Rs. 330, while the latter officers would get only Rs. 250 to Rs. 300. Not only so, but even officers at lower rates of pay than the Head Assistants of the Calcutta offices named above would get a higher maximum under our colleagues' scheme. The same inequality prevails throughout the whole report. The fact is that my colleagues did not take this point seriously into consideration until I pressed it again and again to their notice, and, though at the end they changed paragraph 7 of their "General Observations," by stating that they had in their proposals for purely Calcutta offices taken the higher cost of living into consideration, they omitted to change their figures relating to rates of pay. This is a serious omission and should be rectified.

The necessity of giving some concession to enable officers to face the higher cost of living in Calcutta has already been admitted. In the case of the Imperial Services ordinarily house-rent allowance is paid under the Calcutta house allowance scheme or otherwise. There are also local allowances attached to several appointments. In the case of subordinate services, too, similar concessions have generally been allowed, and with regard to menials a special rate is given for Calcutta, Howrah and Darjeeling. I therefore see no reason to exclude a particular section of the ministerial service from the benefits of the concession. It may be argued that the present rates of pay already contained a provision for the higher cost of living in Calcutta. Such an argument can be disposed of by pointing out that the present maximum wage in Dacca or Chittagong or Rajshahi is Rs. 30, which is also the ordinary rate in Calcutta offices, including the offices of Head of Departments.

Even admitting that the present Calcutta rates were adequate, it cannot be denied that within the last decade the cost of living in Calcutta has increased at a higher rate than elsewhere. I need point only to the increasing rates of house-rent, the growing necessity of using tram cars for attending the office and the cost of medical aid. With regard to this last item, my colleagues, in paragraph 16 of their report, have referred to hardship due to the denial of free medical attendance and supply of medicine to Calcutta clerks, a concession which is given in all other places to Government servants. But as a solution they have suggested that the clerks should organize co-operative medical stores. I do not believe that the difficulty can be so easily solved. The Government of Bihar and Orissa, besides allowing the above concession to their ministerial establishment in Patna, have provided Government quarters at the following rates of rent :—

All the ministerial officers employed in the Bihar and Orissa Secretariat and attached offices have been provided with Government quarters of various types according to the respective salary of each, for which those drawing above Rs. 100 have to pay a monthly rent (exclusive of water and latrine taxes) of ten per cent. of their respective salary, subject to a maximum limit for each type of quarters, as shown in the statement below, and those drawing Rs. 100 and below at 5 per cent. of their respective salary :—

Type of quarters.	Detailed dimensions and number of rooms in each type of quarters.	Maximum rent excluding taxes.
		Rs. A.
A type for the Assistants drawing a salary of Rs. 250 and above (Head Assistants and Superintendents or Heads of Departments.)	4 bedrooms (12' x 15' each). 2 bathrooms (7' x 7' each). 1 godown, 1 store room, 1 cook room and 1 servant's room and 2 privies with enclosed compound	21 0
A type for the Assistants drawing a salary of above Rs. 150 and below Rs. 250.	2 bedrooms (12' x 15' each). 1 bedroom (12' x 12'). 1 cook room, 1 servant's room, 1 bathroom (uncovered), 2 privies with enclosed compound	15 0
B type for the Assistants drawing a salary of above Rs. 100 and up to 150.	3 bedrooms (two 12' x 12' and one 12' x 10') 1 servant's room, 1 cook room, 1 godown and 2 privies with enclosed compound	10 8
C type for the Assistants drawing a salary of Rs. 100 and below.	3 rooms (12' x 10' each,) 1 store room, 1 cook room, 1 servant's room and 2 privies with enclosed compound ...	9 0

In Calcutta, on the other hand, it is impossible to get separate accommodation of any kind at a rate below Rs. 25, and it is no exaggeration to say that, in the case of the lower ranks at least, on an average one-fourth of the pay has to be spent on house-rent. Moreover, owing to the distance of office quarters, it is now-a-days essential for clerks to use tram cars, which costs roughly Rs. 4 to 5 a month. Medical aid in Calcutta is also comparatively costly, as no doctor would accept a fee of less than Rs. 4 per visit.

After considering all these points, I am strongly convinced that some concession should be given to Calcutta clerks, to mitigate their present difficulties. I have not included this concession in the rates of pay recommended by me, as that would have increased the pensionary charges. I therefore suggest that a rate of allowance at 10 per cent. of salary with a minimum of Rs. 10 and a maximum of Rs. 25 should be granted to clerks employed in purely Calcutta offices, to bring them on a par with the other clerks employed in Calcutta offices organised on a divisional basis and other Government servants in general. The cost of this concession would be Rs. 3,60,000 per annum, as shown in the Appendix.

7. Summary of recommendations.—In the detailed scheme of revision, as shown in the statements, I have followed the following scales for the lower division :—

For district offices and offices of similar status, Rs. 35—40—50—2—70—3—100.

For offices of divisional ranks, Rs. 40—45—50—3—80—4—120.

For Superintending Engineers' offices, Rs. 40—45—50—3—110.

For offices of Heads of Departments, High Court and offices of similar rank, Rs. 45—50—60—4—140—5—150.

For the Board of Revenue, Rs. 50—55—65—4—105—5—150 with a selection grade.

For the Secretariat, Rs. 60—60—70—4—130—5—145—145—5—160 with a selection grade.

For the Upper Division, following my colleagues, I have retained progressive scales, the rates varying according to present pay. In a few special cases higher percentages have been allowed for special reasons, as explained in the detailed note regarding respective offices.

For typists in mufassal, Rs. 45— $\frac{1}{2}$ —100, in Calcutta, Rs. 50—3—125.

For Stenographers, three grades of (1) Rs. 80—5—175, (2) 100—5—125—10—225, (3) 100—10—140—10—240.

For Reporters, Rs. 275—10—375.

The efficiency bar should be applied on the 11th year from the date of confirmation.

With regard to the highest ministerial appointments, as they can be reached only after a long number of years of service in the lower grades, I have reduced the period of increments ordinarily to 3 or 4 years. My colleagues have recommended a period of 5 to 10 years but it is obvious under such an arrangement it would be impossible in the majority of cases to attain the maximum before retirement. In the India Secretariat the period of increment in the case of Registrars has been fixed at 2 years.

(II) Menials.

General Remarks.—The general position regarding menials has been explained by my colleagues. They realized that the rates of pay even after the recent revision are inadequate and require further increase. The Postal Committee have recently gone into the question of the pay of menial establishment and have allowed a higher rate to Postmen and a lower rate to inferior servants. For ordinary establishment menials, other than process-servers, my colleagues have adopted the rate allowed to inferior servants in the Postal Department except that they are not prepared to give them an equal maximum as by doing that they would have to allow a higher maximum to process-servers in B class districts than is paid in these districts to constables. I cannot appreciate the force of this argument. Constables, besides pay, are allowed free quarters, free clothing and free passage to home and back on occasions of long leave. Some of them have the prospect of promotion to the rank of head constables or Assistant Sub-Inspectors. These advantages are absent in the case of process-servers and therefore a comparison on the figure of pay alone is unfair, and I see no objection to allowing them higher a maximum than that given to constables. I quite realize that the duties of constables are difficult and exacting, but so too are those of the process-servers. Moreover, constables as a rule are employed on illiterate duties, whereas process-servers have to do literate duties, and their work is more responsible than that of constables.

Having regard to the present-day cost of living and the wages earned by unskilled labour now-a-days I would fix the same rate of pay for establishment menials (other than process-servers) as that fixed by the Government of India for the Postal Department menials of a similar class with the modification that the maximum would be reached in 20 years as suggested by my colleagues. In fact, it is the minimum that can be conceived under the present-day circumstances, and gives a man on an average only about an anna more than that allowed by my colleagues.

2. Scales of pay recommended.—My proposals with regard to the different classes of menials are as below :—

(1) Establishment menials other than process-servers—

			Rs.
A districts	15—1—20
B districts	14—1—19
C districts	13—1—18

(2) Process-servers—

			Rs.
A districts	18—1—24
B districts	16—1—22
C districts	15—1—20

(3) Contingency menials.—Rs. 13, Rs. 14, Rs. 15, and Rs. 16 allowing a general increase of Rs. 4 to each. I cannot agree with my colleagues in their suggestion that the heads of offices should be authorized to reduce these rates at their discretion. If the matter is left to idiosyncrasies different rates of increase are bound to be introduced in different offices and this will lead to serious discontent.

(4) Temporary Establishment menials.—I agree with my colleagues that these men should get the minimum pay of the establishment menials.

(5) Daftaris and Record-suppliers.—I cannot agree that Daftaris should get the same rate of pay as ordinary peons. They must possess some technical knowledge of their work and should also be literate, and, therefore, they should be paid at a slightly higher rate everywhere.

The duties of Record-suppliers are of an important nature, and a really useful man can be helpful in several ways in certain classes of work on which clerks have otherwise to be employed. To employ ignorant low-paid men on this duty, therefore, would be a false economy. I have suggested the following rates :—

Daftaris—for Secretariat, High Court and Board of Revenue—

			Rs.
			20—1—32
For other offices for—
A class districts,	16—1—22
B " "	15—1—20
C " "	14—1—19

Record-suppliers for Secretariat, High Court and Board of Revenue—

			Rs.
			25—1—35—1—40
Ditto	for other offices	...	20—1—32

In comparatively unimportant offices I have given them the same pay as to Daftaris.

(6) Jamadars.—I think that a Jamadar is much more than a senior peon. He is required to control the subordinate peons, to be helpful in tours and get suitable candidates when vacancies for peons occur. I have provided for appointments of Jamadars at special rates for the Secretariat, High Court, Board of Revenue, Heads of Departments and Divisional Commissioners only. In other offices senior peons will work as Jamadars.

(7) Other Menials.—With regard to other menials, I have generally followed the scales laid down for Postal Department menials, with variations in special cases, as will be seen from detailed statements.

(8) Launch Establishment.—I agree with the proposals of my colleagues.

PART III.

Financial Effect of the Proposals.

The financial effect of my proposals is a sum of Rs. 60,34,243 as against my colleagues' Rs. 41,19,057. Details of this sum are shown in the different statements appended to Parts II and IV of this report. Briefly, it is made up as below :—

For Ministerial officers (i) increase of pay Rs. 44,27,808.

(ii) Calcutta allowance for purely Calcutta offices
Rs. 3,60,960.

For menials, increase of pay—Rs. 12,45,475.

To this sum should be added another Rs. 50,000 representing roughly the cost of the Calcutta allowance to offices organized on a divisional basis. The gross effect of my proposals is therefore Rs. 60,84,243. As the present cost of these establishments is Rs. 93,61,140, the increase (including ad interim allowances now sanctioned) is roughly 65 per cent.

Against this increase, however, there will be a saving of about 3 or 4 lakhs on account of the discontinuance of the acting allowance to the holders of those appointments which are now included in the time-scales or lengthy progressive scales. In Part I of my report I have given reasons for holding that the present cost of acting allowances is roughly Rs. 6,00,000, but as under the revised system acting allowance will still be drawn in a certain number of cases, I have roughly taken the savings to be about 3 to 4 lakhs of rupees. Next, although, on paper the extra cost would be Rs. 60½ lakhs, so far as I understand the case, the actual ultimate increased cost will, as a matter of fact, never be reached. I shall illustrate my point by an example. In the district offices, an officer will require to serve about 60 years to rise from the position of a probationer to that of the Superintendent if he has to serve the full incremental period of each grade. As a matter of fact, however, he will serve for a much shorter period in each grade and thus will rarely draw the maximum of any of the grades. As the average cost of each appointment has been calculated on the assumption that each officer will draw the maximum of his scale or grade and as, in the circumstances stated above, this maximum will never be reached by those officers who receive promotion to a higher grade before serving the full incremental period, the cost, as calculated on the average, is higher than the actual cost.

Another point is that a portion of the extra cost is due to reasons other than economic. For instance, the prevailing rates of pay in the Eastern and Western Bengal districts are dissimilar and an assimilation of these rates was long overdue and was necessary even apart from the present revision. Again, it has been found necessary to convert a few posts on lower rates of pay to higher rates owing to the creation of new departments due to the Reform Scheme.

CONCLUSION.

The Government have provided a sum of Rs. 46 lakhs in current year's budget to meet the cost of this revision. This sum will not cover the cost of my proposals. It is not for me to suggest how this extra cost should be met. At the same time I cannot entirely ignore the fact that this will be a heavy charge on the provincial revenues. It, however, appears to me that a portion of the extra cost can be reduced by introducing certain reforms. In the first place, evidence was placed before us showing that in recent years there has been a falling off in the qualifications of recruits as the present rates do not offer sufficient attraction. Should, however, the rates be increased, a better class of men will no doubt be forthcoming, and it may be possible gradually to reduce the existing staff to some extent. This will be an indirect saving to Government. Secondly, I should think that the present system of filling the superior clerical appointments, e.g., those of Under-Secretaries, Assistant Secretaries, Personal Assistants, etc., is too costly and at the same time productive of considerable discontent. I am sure if these posts are filled up by Ministerial officers, who have established their fitness for higher appointments, they will be satisfied with a lower rate than is now given to the present incumbents and at the same time it will be a very great incentive to good work. I consider it a bad policy to set a limit to a man's ambition by hard-and-fast rules, and the present system of debarring really efficient clerks from prize posts to me appears to be indefensible. In the past clerks used to be appointed to responsible posts and I believe thoroughly justified their selection. I understand that the Government of India have adopted a more progressive policy in their own Secretariat, and their example can, I think, be usefully followed by the Local Government. Similarly, I think that certain routine functions of Judicial and Executive Officers can be transferred to Sheristadars and Superintendents, and this, by reducing the work of the former officers, may make it possible to reduce their strength.

On the whole, therefore, I am convinced that a thorough reorganization of the office system is necessary both in the interests of the clerks themselves as well as of Government, and I recommend that this should be taken up as soon as possible.

PART IV.

Notes on individual offices.

In this part I have given reasons for the rates of pay proposed by me for the typical offices. As the rates proposed for other offices follow them closely, I have not dealt with all the offices coming within our review.

The Bengal Secretariat.

I am afraid that the statement of facts made by my colleagues does not convey a correct idea with regard to the offices included in the Bengal Secretariat. In the first place, it has been stated that "the pay of the whole office establishment of the Secretariat was revised in the year 1910." The scales of pay as they stood in the main departments before 1892 and the changes made since then are shown in statement below :—

Appointment.	Before 1892	After 1892.	After 1910	REMARKS.
	Rs	Rs	Rs.
Registrar and Head Assistant ...	458½—40—658½	458½—40—658½
Head Assistant	400—40—600
UPPER DIVISION.
Assistants, Grade I ..	300—20—400	400	400	In 1910 the system of giving a duty allowance to Head Assistants at rates varying from Rs 50 to Rs 100 was introduced.
Do. II ...	200—20—300	300	300
Do III ...	150—10—200	200	250
Do. IV ..	100—10—150	150	150
Do. V	125	125
LOWER DIVISION.
Assistants	60—8—100	100	100
	40—4—60	80	80
	25—3—40	70	70
	60	60
	50	50
	40	40

From the above statement it will be seen that reorganisation of 1910 gave no practical benefit to the Assistants in general. The only change made was the addition of a grade on Rs. 250 by readjustment of other grades and the grant of a duty allowance to Head Assistants who had suffered considerably by the reduction of pay in 1892. There is, therefore, no justification for the statement that the whole office establishment was revised in 1910. For practical purposes, we may, therefore, take it that the scales of pay have remained stationary since 1892.

The comparison made in the statement by my colleagues with the scales of pay granted to the Imperial Secretariat does not give a correct idea of the difference of pay proposed. The two scales really compare as below :—

	Present rates in the Imperial Secretariat Rs.	Proposed rates in the Bengal Secretariat *
Head Assistants or Superintendents ...	600—40—800	425—25—500
Upper Division—
Selection grade ...	375—25—500	325—25—400
Ordinary time-scale ...	200—15—365—380—15—500	150—10—170—10—250—15—400
Probationers ..	175	125
Lower Division—
Selection grade ...	300—25—350	175—200
Ordinary time-scale ...	100—8—156—164—8—300	65—4—145—145—150
Probationers ...	80	60
Stenographers ...	175—9—400 }	250—10—350
		100—10—140—10—240

* Those doing Head Assistants work will get an allowance of Rs. 100

The Bengal Secretariat is the premier office under the Local Government. While I recognize that there should be a difference in the scales of pay between the Imperial and Local Secretariat, I cannot overlook the fact that the gradual devolution of powers to Local Governments, the introduction of the Reforms and the grant of Provincial autonomy have added considerably to the complexity of work in the Secretariat and the difference in the rates of pay, based on a difference in the nature of work, should now be narrowed. Further, the recruits for the Upper Division are selected from the candidates who obtained nomination for Provincial and Subordinate Services, but were not finally appointed. The Public Services Commission recommended a minimum pay of Rs. 250 for all services recruited from the ordinary graduate class, and, although we are not discussing administrative questions, the fact that the Upper Division of the Secretariat has been previously held as occupying a position intermediate between the Provincial and Subordinate services and is actually filled by men of that standard cannot be altogether ignored. It is, however, unnecessary to discuss these questions, as I have, in the scales of pay proposed by me, allowed the standard percentage of increase laid down by me on economic grounds only.

If those scales are accepted, I would suggest that Assistants of Lower Division promoted to the Upper should be allowed to begin at the stage of Rs. 200. In the Secretariat men of the Lower Division cannot expect to get promotion to the Upper before at least 12 years' service, and many of them really commence to do important work after 4 or 5 years.

The Selection grade in the Lower Division should be restricted to 10 per cent. of the Assistants in the grade and should be granted to meritorious Assistants after they have drawn the maximum of the Lower Division for 2 years, as is done in the Imperial Secretariat.

Legislative Department.

In agreement with my colleagues I have not changed the rate of pay of the Superintendent, but have changed the Lower Division scale according to the scale proposed by me for the Secretariat.

Book Depot.

As the revision of the pay of this office in 1918 was not based on economic grounds, I have allowed the ordinary percentage of increase to this office.

Secretariat Record Room.

As the revision of 1919 was based on administrative grounds, I have allowed the ordinary percentage of increase to this office, except to the Keeper of Records, who has been given a lower rate for reasons stated by my colleagues. Although a further reorganisation is under consideration of the Political Department, that does not justify any curtailment of the rates to which the present staff is entitled on economic grounds pending that reorganisation.

Office of the Bengal Translator.

In my proposal regarding this office, I have included posts up to Rs. 75 in the Lower Division, as, in my opinion, this would give a better grading.

Private Secretary's and Military Secretary's Offices.

For reasons stated by my colleagues, I have suggested a rate of pay for the Superintendent, Private Secretary's Office, similar to that suggested by me for the upper selection grades in the Secretariat. With regard to the Assistant Superintendent, who is also the Confidential Assistant to His Excellency the Governor, I think that his pay should be pitched at a reasonably high rate. The proper security of confidential information, a divulgence of which may compromise the position of His Excellency, is a matter of utmost importance, and even an indiscretion on the part of this officer may be fruitful of much mischief. He has to perform a dual function of a very delicate nature something like a Personal Assistant to the Private Secretary and I was inclined to recommend for him a consolidated rate of Rs. 350—25—550 but as this rate would be higher than that proposed for the Superintendent, I have followed the principle suggested by my colleagues, which would allow him to draw the Reporter's pay and allowance.

In both of these offices I have changed the rate of pay for the Lower Division to that proposed by me for the Secretariat.

Posts outside the regular cadre of the Secretariat.

Public Works Department.—I have retained the scale suggested by my colleagues, except in the case of the Superintendent and Mohurris, to whom I have given increase at the standard rate suggested by me. I have provided for two estimators on the higher rate, instead of one, in order to give a flow of promotion.

Other Offices.—To other offices under the head I have given the standard rates.

Stenographers and Council Reporters.

I have retained the rates proposed by my colleagues except that in the case of Senior Reporters I have slightly increased the rate, to give them the standard percentage.

High Court Establishment.

In the case of the Upper Division I have applied the standard percentage while in the case of the Lower Division I have allowed the rate suggested by me for offices of Heads of Departments.

Office of the Board of Revenue, Bengal.

This office has not been adequately dealt with by my colleagues as is evident from the fact that the staff at present in addition to pay gets an ad interim allowance at rates varying from 30 to 15 per cent. of pay, whereas according to their recommendation they would get an increase of 17 per cent. only without the ad interim allowance. Secondly, the existence of the provision for personal allowance at Rs. 25 to specially meritorious assistants of the Lower division who suffer from block of promotion for over five years has been overlooked. The office was reorganised in 1919 on administrative and not on economic grounds as is proved by the fact that Government have allowed the establishment to draw the ad interim allowance, and we are not therefore justified in withholding the grant of the increase at the admissible rate to this office.

This office, it appears to me, formerly occupied a position, in respect of pay, equal to that of the Secretariat. In 1913, however, the rate of pay was lowered in order to provide funds for another reform, but the successive Hon'ble Members (Sir Charles Stevenson-Moore, Messrs. F. J. Monahan and D. H. Lees) in charge of the Board have maintained that the standard of pay should be raised to the Secretariat rate on the ground that the responsibilities are similar. We are, however, not concerned with this question but mention it to justify my argument that the difference between the rates in the two offices should not be further accentuated. The pay of the Lower division, with the ad interim allowance, now begins at Rs. 52 and a clerk in the third year draws Rs. 59-13-0 and our colleagues' proposal to allow Rs. 50 only in the third year of service, far from allowing any increase, would actually mean a reduction of the present rate. I have therefore suggested a rate of Rs. 50—55—65—4—105—5—150 to the Lower division with a selection grade for 10 per cent. at Rs. 170—180 for those meritorious assistants who have drawn the maximum for two years. I have raised the pay of the Head Assistant to Rs. 400—600 against Rs. 400—550 proposed by my colleagues as I find no justification for the latter rate. The Head Assistant is the chief ministerial officer in the office and holds a position analogous to that of a Registrar. For the remaining posts in the Upper division I have suggested a rate of Rs. 125—125—150—10—350 with a selection grade at Rs. 300—25—400. The Assistants promoted from the Lower division shall count their services from Rs. 180 for the purpose of initial entrance to this scale. The Stenographers and Typists have been allowed ordinary rates proposed by me.

Offices of the Heads of Departments.

The general complaint of the staff attached to these offices is that whereas the question of the reorganisation of the Secretariat on the one hand and of the district and divisional offices on the other has been enquired into periodically by special officers or committees, the questions regarding these offices have never formed the subject of any comprehensive enquiry. The initial pay of these offices, viz., Rs. 30, is the same as that prevailing in Eastern Bengal districts for district and divisional offices although, apart from expensiveness of living in Calcutta, the work is much more important and responsible. The standard of recruitment also is higher and, in fact, they have to pass the same clerkship examination as laid down for Secretariat Assistants. Again, the Head Assistants do not get charge allowance as is given to the Head Assistants or branch head assistants in the Secretariat.

I think there is some justification for these complaints. In some of the offices there are recognised upper and lower divisions, while in others there is no such division. Again, in some offices, appointments in the Upper division are partly filled by direct recruits, as in the Secretariat, while in others promotion are made almost exclusively from the Lower division. In fixing the rates of pay in the past, proper consideration does not appear to have been given to these facts.

For the Lower division of these offices my colleagues have suggested a uniform scale of Rs. 45—45—50—3—110—5—120, while for the office of the Inspector-General of Police they have suggested a rate of Rs. 45—45—50—3—65—4—125. Proportionately to the increase suggested by me for the Secretariat and the Board of Revenue, I suggest a uniform rate of Rs. 45—50—60—4—140—5—150 for these offices. For the Secretariat I have suggested a special grade of Rs. 180—200 and for the Board of Rs. 170—180 but neither my colleagues nor I have provided for any such grade here. Considering that recruitment is made from the same class of men as a result of the same examination as in the Secretariat, I do not consider that there should be further difference in the rate of pay.

With regard to the Upper division, in view of direct recruitment, my colleagues have allowed special rates to the offices of the Inspector-General of Police, Director of Public Instruction, and Director of Land Records, viz., Rs. 100—100—125—10—225—¹⁵/₂—300 to the former two offices and Rs. 100—100—125—¹⁵/₂—200—10—250 to the last named office. I agree to the proposed scale with regard to Inspector-General of Police's and Director of Public Instruction's offices but in view of the system in force in the office of the Director of Land Records, laying down that Kanungoes with some 3 to 5 years' service are to be selected for the Upper division, I would lay down a higher rate, viz., Rs. 100—100—125—10—225—15—300 for that office. The pay of a Kanungo is Rs. 100—200 and a person serving for a number of years in that capacity with the qualification he possesses should get a higher maximum at the end of his service than an ordinary candidate. For the selection grade I have suggested Rs. 300—25—350 for the offices of the Inspector-General of Police and the Director of Public Instruction and Rs. 250—25—300 for the office of the Director of Land Records.

Except with regard to the time scale for the three offices named above, I have suggested an increase of pay at a uniform percentage for all offices of Heads of Departments. The rates suggested by me will, I think, be considered quite moderate in comparison with the rates already sanctioned by Government for the Upper division in the office of the Director of Industries, viz., Rs. 120—10—350.

The present pay of the Head Assistant of the Inspector-General of Police is Rs. 300—20—400. This rate was fixed without reference to economic considerations as is obvious from the fact that Government have allowed the officer to draw the ad interim allowance. The value of this appointment should therefore be increased according to the standard percentage and I have suggested a rate of Rs. 400—25—500.

I recommend that in the case of offices of Heads of Departments a clerk promoted from the Lower to the Upper division should be allowed to begin at Rs. 150 stage.

Offices of Commissioners of Divisions.

My colleagues have suggested a minimum pay of Rs. 45 for those offices with a probationary rate of Rs. 40 for two years. In view of my general contention that the minimum pay must not be less than Rs. 50, I have suggested this higher rate with lower rates for the probationary period. I realize that the Commissioners' offices should have a higher minimum, but I have been unable to recommend this in view of the extra cost. At the same time, in agreement with my colleagues, I have allowed them a higher maximum in the Lower division. The result is that I suggest a scale of Rs. 40—45—50—3—80—4—120 for the Lower division against my colleagues' scale of Rs. 40—40—45— $\frac{3}{2}$ —70— $\frac{3}{2}$ —100. In the case of the upper appointments, I have followed the line adopted by my colleagues except that I have suggested somewhat higher rates.

Superintending Engineers and Executive Engineers' Offices.

For the Superintending Engineers' offices I have suggested a rate of Rs. 40—45—50—3—80—3—110 for the Lower division, that is, a maximum which is midway between the district Executive and Judicial offices on the one hand and Commissioners' offices on the other. For the Executive Engineers' office clerks and subdivisional clerks I have suggested the same scale as the one recommended by me for Judicial and Executive offices. The posts in the upper grades have been allowed the standard percentage.

With regard to draftsmen, estimators and others possessing technical qualifications, I have followed the rates allowed by my colleagues.

Offices of Deputy Inspectors-General of Police.

There are six such offices, one of the Deputy Inspector-General of Police, Criminal Investigation Department and the others of the Range Deputy Inspector-General. The clerical staff of these offices is now borne in a combined cadre along with the main office of the Inspector-General of Police. By separating the cadres of these offices, the present incumbents will lose the chances of promotion to the higher posts in the Inspector-General's office while the fixing of a lower rate of pay for them will be another hardship. If, however, the separation is necessary on administrative grounds, it must be carried out, but at the same time, if possible, some scheme should be introduced to protect the present incumbents from loss of pay and prospects.

For the Lower division of these offices I have suggested the same rate as proposed for the offices of Commissioners of divisions except that for the Criminal Investigation Department I have suggested a slightly higher maximum, in view of the fact that this is an office of a higher rank.

The other appointments do not require special mention.

Executive and Judicial offices in districts.

The present position of these offices and the difficulty of assimilating the rates in Western and Eastern Bengal districts have been explained by my colleagues.

I have already given full reasons for adopting Rs. 50 as minimum wage of clerks of qualifications required for district and divisional offices. I have quoted the rates given to corresponding offices in Assam and by the Postal Department in support of my proposition for a higher rate than that proposed by my colleagues.

One fact, however, it is necessary to mention here. The total number of appointments in the Judicial and Executive offices is 5,253 of which only 786 are in the Upper division. In other words, 85 men out of each 100 have to end their career in the Lower division not because all of them are unfit for higher promotion, but because the constitution of these offices does not offer an adequate scope even to really capable persons. The problem before us is whether the pay of Rs. 40 at the 3rd year and of Rs. 80 at retirement after 30 years' service, when a man is overburdened with the expenses of a family and have children to educate and daughters to marry and also to make some provision for his family is really a reasonable wage. I have given my most anxious consideration to this subject and am strongly convinced that the range of pay must be Rs. 50 rising to Rs. 100 with two years' probationary service in the beginning at lower rates. I should emphatically state that I do not consider that either an adequate or a reasonable rate for a man required to perform the intricate and responsible work which many of the clerks in the Lower division are required to undertake, but I am not recommending a higher rate both in view of financial considerations and also because we are precluded from dealing with administrative questions. Important departments like Income Tax, Certificate, Embankment, Probate, Settlement, Partition, Intestate and Testamentary Cases, Sales, etc., are in charge of Lower division clerks and the work is both intricate and responsible. Very often heavy extra work is thrown on the clerks for which not only no remuneration is given but leave of the whole staff is curtailed to get the work done. I may mention the work in connection with Reform Scheme Election, the work in connection with Census which will last about 2 or 3 years.

With regard to the Upper division of these offices I have generally followed the arrangement proposed by my colleagues except in the case of the Accountants in the Executive offices and Sheristardars in Judicial offices. With regard to the former, I have definitely retained the third highest appointments for these officers instead of leaving them to compete with others for the selection posts proposed to be thrown open by my colleagues to all in Upper division. My reason for this difference is that the work of the Accountant is third in importance and responsibility and he has to control a larger staff than any other sectional head. Moreover, it is desirable that the Accountants' pay should be higher than the first Assistant Accountants'. I have therefore divided the Accountants into two classes, the pay of each class varying with the importance of work as determined by the pay of the Treasurer. With regard to the Sheristadars in Judge's offices I have abolished the inequality in the minimum pay which has been suggested by my colleagues as there is no valid reason for any such petty differentiation which only produces discontent.

I have suggested a rate of Rs. 250—15—325 for all Sheristadars and Superintendents. This gives a higher percentage of increase than the standard fixed by me. I have done this on various considerations, mainly economic. In the first place, this is the highest post available in each of the district offices consisting in an average of 100 men. Moreover, these officers are required to control a very large staff and have to maintain a status and dignity both in office as well as with the public. I agree with Mr. Savage, who conducted the preliminary work of the Eastern Bengal Ministerial Officers' Committee of 1905 to 1908, in holding that these officers are something like Personal Assistants to District Officers. Their pay therefore must be commensurate with their position. The revision of 1911 gave no increase in the maximum of the pay of the officers in Western Bengal while it gave only Rs. 25 to officers in Eastern Bengal. Practically, therefore, the pay of these posts have remained almost stationary since 1886 and, therefore, I am of opinion that a higher percentage of increase should be allowed to these few appointments. In fact, I was inclined to recommend a maximum of Rs. 350 but refrain from doing so owing to extra cost.

Office of the Superintendents of Police.

The Lower division has been included in the standard scale of Rs. 25—40—50—2—70—3—100. The duties of Accountants in Police offices are very difficult and I have suggested for them a rate of Rs. 100—4—120 and for head clerks a rate of Rs. 125—7—160. It has been represented to us that the clerks of the Police Department suffer considerable inconvenience and extra expenditure by frequent transfers while the nature of their duties requires their attendance in office at any hour. They have therefore urged that their pay should be fixed at rates higher than the ordinary rates. We have not gone into these questions and I shall not therefore be justified in recommending special rates for them.

Registration Offices.

For the clerical staff in headquarters offices I have proposed the same minimum as that proposed by me for the Lower division in district Executive and Judicial offices, but I have not given them the same maximum. But, if the post of head clerk is included, the scale as a whole will allow one man in each office to reach the maximum of the Lower grade proposed for Executive and Judicial offices.

For rural offices I have suggested a lower rate of Rs. 35—1—50.

APPENDIX to PART II.

Statement showing the cost of the allowance proposed for the Ministerial staff employed in purely Calcutta offices.

I have recommended an allowance at the rate of 10 per cent. of salary, subject to a minimum of Rs. 10 and maximum of Rs. 25. It is difficult to make an accurate estimate of the cost of this concession, but to arrive at a rough estimate I have made the calculation on the average proposed pay at four rates, viz., Rs. 10, Rs. 15, Rs. 20 and Rs. 25, the difference between these rates and actual admissible rates having been overlooked if it is Rs. 2-8-0 or less and having been taken as Rs. 5 if it is over Rs. 2-8-0. For instance, if the actual sum payable under my proposal is Rs. 17-8-0 I have taken it as Rs. 15, but if it is Rs. 17-9-0, I have taken it as Rs. 20. I hope this will give a fairly accurate idea of the extra cost.
